

PORTRAITS OF TWO DISTINGUISHED SONS

Are Added To Gallery of Notables In Madison Circuit Court Room Monday Morning

Two handsome oil portraits were added to the gallery of distinguished sons of Madison in the Madison county circuit room when court convened Monday morning. The portraits were those of W. H. Caperton and Col. J. W. Caperton, father and son, and in their day, two of the ablest legal lights in this section of Kentucky.

The presentation address was delivered by Attorney A. R. Burnam, Hon. W. B. Smith responded on behalf of the bar, and Judge W. R. Shackelford accepted the handsome portraits on behalf of the court. In presenting the pictures on behalf of the family of two distinguished lawyers and citizens, Mr. Burnam said:

"Whatever touches the life of a notable man deserves to be recorded with care and solemnity."

It is the wish of Mrs. James W. Caperton and Mrs. Paul Burnam, wife and daughter of the late Col. James W. Caperton, to present to this court Judge W. R. Shackelford of the 25th Circuit, presiding, the portraits in oil of Col. Wm. H. Caperton (1798-1862) and Col. Jas. W. Caperton (1824-1909); and in so doing it is deemed appropriate to submit the following facts:

Col. Wm. H. Caperton and his son, Col. James W. Caperton practiced law at the Richmond Bar from 1818 to 1909, a period of 91 consecutive years. Col. Wm. H. Caperton read law under his maternal uncle, Archibald Woods, one of the earliest lawyers at the Richmond, Kentucky Bar, and was admitted to the Bar in 1818. He died in 1862, his professional career covering a period of 44 years. Col. James W. Caperton, after receiving his education at Centre College, Danville, Kentucky, took his law course at Old Transylvania University, Lexington, Kentucky, studying under Chief Justice Robertson, Thos. A. Marshall, Aaron K. Wooley and others. Soon after graduation from Transylvania he was examined by two of the Circuit Judges of the Commonwealth, James Simpson and Samuel Lusk, and on March 3rd, 1845 he was granted license to practice law in the "inferior and Superior Courts of this Commonwealth." He died at his residence, Blair Park, in Richmond, Ky., on April 19th, 1909, still in the active practice of his profession, which covered a period of 64 years.

"Each generation is a connecting link between the eventful past and the unknown future," and no one single expression can delineate the features of a truly comprehensive character. For this reason it is well in studying a life to look also to those who have gone before. Both father and son were born in Madison County, Kentucky, descendants of families of Virginia, notable both in the Colonial period of Virginia history and through the century following the revolutionary war to the present time. Union, Monroe County, Virginia, was the seat of the Caperton family. Two of the name came as pioneers to Ky., Adam and William.

The name of Adam Caperton, brother of William, the father of Col. Wm. H. Caperton, is enrolled among those who gave their lives in bringing civilization to Kentucky. He was killed at the battle of "Estill's Defeat" 1782; and Capt. James Estill lost his life in trying to save that of his friend. The Capertons of Virginia "had large private and business interests." In the years following the revolutionary war, Hugh Caperton, son of Adam Caperton, came to Kentucky, was one of the most prominent public men in Virginia. He held many positions of public honor and trust, among others, that of Representative in Congress from what was known as the "Greenbrier District" of Virginia during the troublesome era following the "War of 1812." He died in 1847. "Whilst in Congress he met the most of the time with Daniel Webster, for whom he ever retained the highest respect and warmest regard. He was also the warm admirer and devoted friend of Henry Clay, who made him a visit at his house, 'Elmwood' in Monroe County, Virginia, not long before his death, traveling two or three hundred miles from Washington for that purpose." The late Major John Caperton of Louisville; Mrs. S. A. Preston of Montgomery County, Virginia, widow of Col. James Preston, son of Governor James Preston of Virginia; and the Hon. Allen T. Caperton, who was one of the most illustrious Virginians in the middle of the century—dying in Washington City in 1876—while a member of the United States Senate—were children of this Hon. Hugh Caperton.

Allen T. Caperton, United States Senator, inherited a vast landed estate from his father; was graduated at Yale; and the late Gen. Cassius M. Clay refers to him in his memoirs as one of his own intimate friends at Yale, mentioning also in this connection, the grandfather of the present Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati. In the later years of the 1800's the Hon. Edward Echols and the Hon. Caperton Eason were notable representatives of the Caperton family in Virginia, their mothers having been daughters of the Hon. Allen T. Caperton. The former was an able lawyer and Lieut. Governor of the state, and the latter was generally conceded to be the most able lawyer at the Virginia Bar for many years. Of the achievements and distinctions of his forbears and collateral relatives, Col. James W. Caperton was justly proud, and followed their careers with marked interest—not only the careers of those who attained political fame, but also those who became distinguished in the service of their country, both army and navy. That both the father and son, whose memory we are celebrating today, were worthy and gifted descendants of the Virginia line, just referred to, may be better shown by quoting from documents, penned by their contemporaries and those who were intimately associated with them in life's pilgrimage.

In the 91 years both Col. W. H. Caperton and Col. James W. Caperton were employed in many of the most important cases before the courts of the state; and were associated with the first lawyers of their day, either on the same side or as opposing counsel.

Gen. Cassius M. Clay, Jan. 21st, 1889, wrote: "I cannot forget your noble father, William H. Caperton, who was so distinguished as a profound lawyer; and who stood unsurpassed in his day of eminent men as a popular orator. He was my friend from the time I first entered political life till his death."

Judge Flanagan—1909—wrote:

"While in Richmond I missed the old lawyers that once belonged to the Bar there, viz: Col. W. H. Caperton, Maj. Squire Turner, Judge Daniel Breck, Col. Speed Smith." "What a strong Bar it was when the four named lawyers were the leaders. They made a state and national reputation by their proper attainments in their profession. They helped to make much of jurisprudence that adorns the annals of the Kentucky reports in the early and middle of the last century, which fact is amply attested by an examination of said reports. The learning and research they displayed is wonderful. Even at this day no one practicing law in Kentucky can afford to ignore their work as it appears in the voluminous reports in the Bibbs, Marshalls and Duvalls. Among Kentucky's eminent lawyers none were more gifted than Col. Wm. H. Caperton in intellect and person. He was a born orator, and possessed brilliant talents. He was a great lawyer and an earnest advocate. He bestowed much care on his pleadings, and so perfect were they constructed as to be almost invincible. His features were handsome and his form graceful. He would have been esteemed in any community in which he mingled, for the rare gifts that so distinguished him."

Judge James Flanagan of Winchester to Col. James W. Caperton, June 15th, 1904, wrote:

"I am gratified to assure you that the dedication of the Huston monument was a success in every respect. Col. Breckinridge never made a greater speech. It gave me great pleasure to listen to his tribute to your father, Col. Wm. H. Caperton, for it was as deserved as it was sincere. Gen. Huston was probably more intimate with Col. W. H. Caperton than with any other of his contemporaries. They were more congenial."

"There was a galaxy of advocates in the former district of which Clark county was a part, consisting of Col. W. H. Caperton, Garrett Davis, James F. Robinson and Gen. John B. Huston, who combined together in a case were almost invincible."

Judge A. R. Burnam, April 20, 1909:

"Col. Wm. H. Caperton was the foremost jury advocate of his time, and in the contest of his day measured strength with Henry Clay, John C. Breckinridge, Mat Johnson, Richard A. Buckner and was easily the peer of any of them."

Maj. Curtis F. Burnam in 1862 and again in 1905 wrote:

"Col. Wm. H. Caperton was a thoroughly trained lawyer, and one of the most eloquent of orators. His professional life was full and complete on the Circuit and before the Appellate Court. He was not only a great lawyer but on the political stump he was a brilliant speaker. In social life he was a charming man. He was a member of the state Legislature in 1828 and was appointed by President Taylor, United States District Attorney for Kentucky, when the State had only one district. I had sincere admiration for Col. Caperton as a friend and kinsman. By marriage Col. Caperton was united directly and collaterally to a very large number of the most prominent and distinguished people in the west, south and east—by all of whom his fame was valued as a large part of the family wealth and distinction."

Perhaps the warmest friend of Col. Wm. H. Caperton among his associates at the Bar, was Judge Richard A. Buckner, until a very advanced age a lawyer, and distinguished citizen at Lexington. A few years before his death, he wrote a tribute to Col. Wm. H. Caperton, which expressed an esteem rendered to but few men. The writer of this article regrets not being able to find it.

Col. James W. Caperton
Of Col. Jas. W. Caperton, Judge J. D. Hunt of Lexington wrote on April 19, 1909:

"In former years when I was Judge of the Court in Richmond, I was intimately associated with Col. Caperton and formed for him a warm friendship and regard. He was a man who drew his friends close to him, and he richly deserved the respect and love so widely entertained for him. I was one of those who loved him and held him in highest regard."

Col. W. A. Milton of Louisville, wrote:

SENATE DEFEATS HIRAM'S AMENDMENT

Close Vote of 40 to 38 Against Amending Peace Treaty on Voting Power Question

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Oct. 28—Senator Hiram Johnson's amendment to the peace treaty proposing in effect that the United States voting power in the League of Nations be increased to equal that of Great Britain and her dominions, was rejected by the Senate today by a vote of 40 to 38. Among those absent, paired or not voting were Senators Stanley and Berham, of Kentucky, who were opposed to the amendment, and Ellkins, of West Virginia, republican who favored its adoption. Two democrats, Gore and Shields, voted with the republicans for adoption. Nine republicans who voted with democrats against the adoption were Colt, Edge, Hale Kellogg, Keyes, McCumber, McNary, Nelson and Sterling.

Integrity and the sense of justice, which in his dealings with his fellows, Col. Caperton manifested. I never knew a man who attracted me as he."

Judge Robert Rodas of Bowling Green, wrote:

"Col. Caperton was a noble specimen of manhood, truthful, courageous, faithful and honest. He was my relative and friend. I render to him the homage and love due a man so noble, brave and true."

Hon. Charles H. Rodas, Danville:

"For Col. Caperton I entertained the highest admiration and esteem. My honored father, the late Clifton Rodas, was devoted to Col. Caperton and taught all of his children to love and admire him."

Judge Jere R. Morton upon his retirement as Circuit Judge of this District wrote to Col. James W. Caperton:

"I will ever remember your kindnesses to me personally, and will ever cherish with increasing approval your wisdom, courage, and loftiness of spirit, of all of which I have been, while attempting to serve my country, an appreciative beneficiary, for more than nine years."

At a meeting of the Madison County Bar, April 20, 1909—Judge A. R. Burnam said:

"James W. Caperton possessed many of the characteristics of his father. More than any other man that I have known he possessed the qualities of his distinguished line of ancestors. Col. Caperton was a man of fine social qualities, polite, courteous, considerate; and while never offering advice he was always ready to lend assistance or advice to those who sought his counsel. In his long career as a member of this Bar, I never knew him for a moment to be guilty of the slightest rudeness or impoliteness, or fail to treat with the utmost kindness the lawyers who were either associated with him or opposed to him in the trial of causes."

Judge W. R. Shackelford said: "As a citizen he stood for every enterprise which had for its object the betterment of his fellow man, the uplift of humanity and the advance of civic righteousness. He was on the right side of every moral movement."

He was the most self-reliant man I ever knew. One dominant feature was his pure and disinterested patriotism and unswerving loyalty to established authority. He maintained the dignity and high ethical standing of his profession and as he served his clients well he did not hold that service lightly."

Hon. James B. McCreary, U. S. Senate said:

"His life was full of good illustrations and he came fully up to Blackstone's aphorism, act honestly, live honorably, and rendered to every man his due. He was universally conceded to be an able lawyer."

The Resolutions of the Bar, 1919: "We realize we have lost not only the eldest member of the Bar living at this time; but one of the most attractive personalities that ever graced it."

Three most intimate friends of Col. James W. Caperton during his career as a lawyer were Judge W. C. Goodloe, who was a first cousin of his father, and whom he considered a great judge; the Hon. John Bennett, whose friendship was always sincere and to be relied upon, and "whose word was as good as his bond"; and Judge A. R. Burnam, for whom he cherished the deepest admiration and affection. The changing years have left Hon. W. B. Smith alone of all the contemporaries of Col. James W. Caperton, as an accomplished representative of those who have gone before.

The portraits are the work of Miss Adelaide Everharte of Atlanta, Georgia, whose work as a painter of portraits is known throughout the South and in many points in the East. They are copied from the original portraits by A. O. Revenaugh, a distinguished artist of Louisville, Ky., now deceased.

PLANNING TO MEET THREATENED STRIKE

Administration's Plan To Meet Walk-out of Coal Miners Won't Be Disclosed Yet

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Oct. 27—Administration officials today considered measures to meet the situation created by the threatened strike of soft coal miners Saturday. No reply from the officers of the United Mine Workers of America to President Wilson's demand that the strike be called off is expected until after the miners' executive committee meets at Indianapolis Wednesday, but officials took cognizance of the union leaders being physically impossible to secure withdrawal of the strike order by November 1st.

The administration's plan for dealing with the strike will not be disclosed until the strike has developed. While it is the purpose to keep a "strong hand" on radicals, officials made it plain the conservative element will not be antagonized. In this connection it was said many miners' demands might be just.

Miners' Head Is Defiant

(By Associated Press)

Springfield, Ill. Oct. 28—Prefacing his announcement with the statement he had received no communication from government sources as to President Wilson's stand against the threatened strike of the soft coal miners of November 1st, Acting President Lewis, of the United Mine Workers of America, today declared the widely heralded intimation that force may be resorted to will not serve to allay the crisis. "A threat to prosecute and incarcerate myself and associates will neither prevent the strike nor terminate it, if it occurs," said Lewis. He asserted there is yet a way to avert the strike if the government would use its power to assemble the coal operators and "get from them for the miners just consideration of their demands."

Washington, Oct. 28—Persons exhibiting a red flag or advertising overthrow of the government would be subjected to federal prosecution under a bill favorably reported today by the Senate Judiciary committee.

Can't Fool With Cox

(By Associated Press)

Columbus, O., Oct. 28—Governor Cox today suspended Mayor Poorman, of Canton, because of alleged inefficient handling of the strike riots there and appealed to a committee of Canton business men to rally around Vice Mayor Schrantz. Cox said if the latter cannot handle the situation the Ohio National Guard now at Akron, would take charge.

"Cash and Carry" Plan Installed By Culton's Meat Market

We take pleasure in announcing to our many friends and patrons of the new system which we will install in our meat market beginning Saturday, November 1st.

The "cash and carry" plan has been tried out by meat dealers all over this state with satisfactory results both to the customer and retailer.

We find that by doing away with the expense of keeping books, delivery service, and other things necessarily involved in our old system, we will be able to save our customers a great deal of money on their meat bills, if they will cooperate with us in putting this plan to completion.

We will publish from week to week the market prices on all our meats, so you can see for yourself the big saving we can offer you.

CULTON'S MEAT MARKET.

BABY GOT HOLD OF CARBOLIC ACID

Little Millard Frances Abrams, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Abrams had a narrow escape from death when she accidentally got hold of a bottle of carbolic acid at their home here. Mrs. Abrams was cleaning of a mantel and put a box of medicine within reach of the little one who promptly began to investigate them. She pulled the cork and had taken a sip from the bottle of acid, when her mother happened to glance around, and was horrified to see it foaming out of the baby's mouth. Drs. Gibson and Smoot worked heroically with her and outside of a badly burned mouth the little one sustained no serious injuries.

Mat Cohen Calls A Spade
Ed Morrow seemed mighty anxious to jump into print with a denial of any reports that he doesn't pay debts or give checks. It all came about because Gov. Black said he would allow his checks to go to protest. Gov. Black did not name Morrow nor did he make the reference such that Morrow might even remotely suspect that he was concerned. Mat Cohen, however, took off his gloves when he began to talk about such things down at Jamestown the other day and called a spade. The republicans have been accusing Mat of spending the state's money extravagantly, on his trips to Washington on farmers' business. To this Mr. Cohen said, admitting that he had extravagantly expended state funds, which he admitted solely for the sake of argument, not one dollar of the money has gone for booze, not a dollar has gone for poker table or in a crap game, nor a cent for taxi-fare after a night of debauchery and disgrace, and that is more than the Republican nominee for governor can say. "Mr. Morrow has referred to me as 'the daddy of the dog-catchers'; I would rather accept that name than be known as the father of cold checks—and there are plenty of them." So far Morrow has not replied to Cohen and what he may say will be awaited with interest.

The first formal presidential candidacy has been announced. Something rather unusual. Senator Miles Poindexter, of Washington, in a statement to the people of the United States, announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for President and presented a platform of politics and principles which he will advocate in his campaign. The Washington Senator in his statement of policy denounced threats of labor leaders to tie up the railroads as "government by terror, for a special class," and declares that the government must be made supreme to both capital and labor though insisting that the just claims of labor should be recognized.

PANOLA
We have had plenty of rain the past week, which was greatly needed. Brother Isaac filled his regular appointment at Thomas school house Sunday. The Hardin Cole heirs sold their farm a few days ago to Tom Baker for the sum of $1400. Charlie Cole left Wednesday for Ohio where he will make his future home. Granvil Reid sold his farm to Andy Brandenburg for the sum of $1,600. Corn cutting and sorghum making is about over in this section. Mrs. Mary Walton, who has been sick for the past four weeks, is some better. There was a large flock of wild geese passed over Sunday, which seems to say that winter is close at hand.

Hubert Arvine, of near this place and Linda Harrison, of Berea, were married a few days ago.

TELL THE WORLD THIS WOMAN SAYS

That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made Me a Well Woman.

Los Angeles, Cal.

"I suffered with female troubles for years, was sick most of the time, was not able to do my own housework, and I could not get help from doctors. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers, and took six bottles, and am a well woman. You can use my name to tell the world the good your medicine has done me as I shall praise it always."—Mrs. A. L. DEVINE, 647 St. Paul Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

Women who suffer from any form of weakness, as indicated by displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness or "the blues" should do as Mrs. Devine did, and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a thorough trial. For over forty years this famous remedy, which contains the curative, strengthening properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, has been correcting just such ailments. If you have mysterious complications write for advice to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

LEAGUE BANQUET

Delightful Occasion Given Friday Evening To Members

The Sunday school room of the Methodist church was the scene of a festive occasion last Friday evening when the Epworth League entertained at most delightful banquet. The League colors, yellow and white, were carried out in the decorations, and the great bundles of fodder, pumpkins and autumn leaves completed a scene which was most picturesque. The lights were hooded in yellow, and large pumpkins containing white chrysanthemums furnished the center pieces of the five tables. A regular course dinner was served, after which Miss Ella Hanawalt, who acted as toast mistress, presided. Miss Hanawalt was at her best, and the delightfully naive way in which she introduced the speakers, merited much applause. After a few words of welcome, from the President, Mr. Oscar Stiver and the superintendents of the four departments of the Epworth League were introduced, and in brief speech each gave an outline of the work in her department. Miss Sudie Warren then gave a reading, after which Mr. J. H. Payne, in a stirring speech, told of the purpose of the League, summoning it up in the words, "The Art of Right Living." Mr. Dennis V. Sharp, of Paris, Ky., the President of the Kentucky Conference of Epworth Leagues then spoke on "The Call of the Best," and his challenge to the 75 young people who were gathered at the banquet, to answer the call of service, will long be remembered. A number of new members were added to the Epworth League, and the chapter will take up its plan of fall work with a new zeal and inspiration because of the social gathering, Friday evening.

Pattie A. Clay Infirmary

Thursday, October 30th, the annual membership drive for the benefit of the Pattie A. Clay Infirmary will be made by the ladies of the city and county.

The members of the board and those who have offered to, assist in the drive will meet at the home of Miss Helen S. Bennett on Thursday at 9:30 o'clock. One dollar will entitle the donor to the one year membership. Five dollars or more will enroll the donor as an annual contributor.

May every citizen become a member of the hospital association and all those who can will afford to give more than $1.00 should not be content to contribute less than $5.00, $10, $25, $50, or $100 annually to this only public hospital.

Those who have not already given through the church or for any reason can not give their gifts on Thursday may send them to either Mrs. George Simmons, Treasurer; Mrs. Eugene Walker, President of the Board; Miss Helen S. Bennett, President of the Association.

A Plan For Hemp Growers

Letters urging the Kentucky farmers to take an interest in hemp raising next year so they may receive some of the advantages of the large hemp breaking plant to be erected in Lexington, were mailed out over the state Saturday by John R. Humphrey, head of the department of markets, University of Kentucky. It is proposed in the letter that a Kentucky Hemp Growers' Association be formed and that it will be an equal partner with the mill authorities in passing upon grades of fiber in case of possible dispute.

The department of markets is planning to hold meetings within the next few weeks within the hemp-breaking area to explain the proposition thoroughly and give the farmers an opportunity to sign contracts for the coming year. Kentucky averages about 1,000 pounds of hemp to the acre, making a net return of between $100 and $110.

CIRCUIT COURT IS AGAIN IN SESSION

Circuit court reconvened Monday morning after a week's recess. Trial of civil cases was resumed after the formal presentation of the portraits of Col. James W. Caperton and his father, mention of which is made in another column.

The grand jury will reconvene Tuesday. There is quite a bunch of business still before that body. A new petit jury was drawn to serve this week, composed of Messrs. James R. McKinney, W. C. Smith, John A. McCord, J. B. Curtis, Ernest Thomas, Simon Eades, Harry Morgan, John W. Covington, John H. Gibson, C. H. Park, A. B. Arnett, Wm. Barnes, George W. Warner, J. C. Gilbert, W. F. Higgins and Frank Burgin.

Some very interesting civil suits are yet before the court for hearings and they will probably be disposed of this week.
